Private Kills 30 Japs in Reckless Fight on Okinawa

Executive Officer Says Man Apparently Meant to Get Out of Army via 2 Routes

Okinawa, June 12 (Delayed) (AP)—P.F.C. Clarence B. Craft, Santa Ana, Calif., in a one-man massacre, killed 30 Japanese and drove a wedge that, his regimental commander said, helped snap the Japanese Shuri defense line.

Fellow Doughboys, who had a ringside seat to "a fighting performance we hardly could believe," told today how Craft almost single-handed wiped out a strong Japanese pocket in 10 to 15 minutes.

Craft, married and the father of a four-year-old son, made his one-man assault on a 450-foot hill May 31 when elements of the 96th Infantry Division were pinned down by intense machinegun fire.

For 10 days, Japanese from this hill had held up two battalions. Two flanks of two divisions couldn't move until it was seized.

On May 31, a company and two platoons assaulted the hill again. Then Craft went into action. When he reached the hilltop, he began tossing grenades into trenches and foxholes as men from his platoon passed them up to him. He straddled a trench, pouring fire from his Garand down into it. Then he jumped in, mowing down Japanese as they got to him. He knocked out a heavy machinegun and its crew as he strode through the trench. He drove the Japanese he didn't kill into a hillside cave, then sealed it with a demolition charge.

58 Bodies Counted

Fifty-eight Japanese bodies, three "knee" mortars, three machineguns, about 80 rifles and ammunition littered the hill when the fight was over. Craft himself fired five clips of rifle ammunition and threw 48 grenades. He estimated he killed 25 Japanese with rifle fire; the remainder with grenades.

Grenades thrown by his buddies, two of whom were wounded, accounted for the other Japanese. At one time, Japanese and Americans were duelling with grenades which sailed over Craft's head.

Craft freely credited covering fire from his buddies with making his fight possible.

Lt. Roy L. Barnes, Winchester, Ind., executive officer of G Company of the 382nd Regiment, said that while he saw the whole action he could think only: "That damn fool is determined to get out of the army, either via a medal of honor—or dead.'"

Craft, a former truck driver and a replacement, joined the 96th Division here late in April. He had not killed a Japanese until the hill action.

Mother Gives Praise

Santa Ana, Calif., June 13 (AP)—The mother of P.F.C. Clarence B. Craft, killer of 30 Japanese in a daring foray with grenades and rifle fire on Okinawa, says "he's the most accurate thrower I ever saw."

"Why, I've seen that boy kill fish in a stream throwing rocks at them, home in Missouri," said Mrs. Pearl Craft after she and her daughter, Mrs. Cora Lillian Sinner, 21, received the news.

Craft's wife, Betty, 21, said: "I'm not surprised, exactly, but I don't see how he could have done it so soon. You see, this was his first battle."

The French slang word "chic" meaning superficial smartness dates from Louis XIV's reign, when it referred to lawyers who were masters of "chicane" or legal trickery.

Two Men Injured When Trucks Collide Tuesday

Two men suffered injuries yesterday afternoon about 1:50 o'clock when a coal truck owned by Grant Lane of Bearsville and driven by Herman Whispell of Lake Hill and a Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation service truck collided on the Willow-Mt. Tremper road near Ideal Park.

Whispell complained of injuries to his chest and Clarence Howland, riding on the coal truck, suffered injuries about the hands and face. Both men were taken to Dr. Quinn's office at Phoenicia for treatment.

In the Central Hudson truck were William F. Rightmyer and Chris Mauterstock, Saugerties linemen. They were not injured.

According to an investigation made by deputy sheriffs, both trucks were traveling toward Mt. Tremper. The service truck slowed down for the occupants to ascertain the number of a light pole and the coal truck following struck the service truck in the rear.

Rightmyer, driving the service truck, said he did not know a truck was following him. The injured men were taken to Phoenicia by Mrs. Lane. The coal truck was badly damaged about the front end.

Parole Violation Charged

The charge of forgery against Werner Fred Luck of Walden, R.D., who has been held at the Ulster county jail since his arrest on February 24 by Corporal Martin of the State Police, and who was indicted by the grand jury, was withdrawn Tuesday. However, Luck was immediately taken into custody again by the sheriff's office on a warrant charging violation of parole and will be turned over to a state parole officer.

Wyet Fox Meets End

The fox that killed 15 hens belonging to Mrs. Mary Ann Tubritt, of Fethard-on-the-Sea, Eire, never lived to boast of its night's work. Awakened by the cackling of her fowls, Mrs. Tubritt rushed out and, ignoring its vicious snapping, jumped on the fox and broke its neck.

Local Death Record

Funeral services for Joseph R. Nemire who died Monday will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the Jenson and Deegan Funeral Home, 15 Downs street. Relatives and friends are invited to attend. The services will be conducted by the Rev. William J. McVey, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in the family plot in Honesdale Cemetery, Honesdale, Pa.

Helen A. Whitney, daughter of Herbert A. and Carrie E. Streeter Whitney, died at the residence, 470 Third street, Brooklyn, yesterday. Services will be held at the home in Brooklyn Thursday evening at 8 o'clock and services will also be held at the parlors of A. Carr and Son, 1 Pearl street, Kingston, Friday at 3:30 p. m. Burial will be in Montrepose cemetery. Miss Whitney was a file clerk in the National City Bank of New York.

The funeral of Bernard V. Duffy, secretary for Judge Henderson of the Surrogate's Court in the Bronx, New York, was held Tuesday morning in the Holy Spirit Church in New York where a requiem Mass was said by Father Manning, formerly of St. Joseph's Church, this city. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, this city, where final absolutions were given by the Rev. John D. Simmons of St. Joseph's Church.

The funeral of Thomas McAuliffe was held Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock from his home and at 10 o'clock at St. John's Church, Stony Hollow, where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. Philip J. Nolan. The church was filled by his many relatives and friends who came to pay a last tribute of respect to his memory. During the bereavement very large numbers called at his home to express words of sympathy to the members of the family and to offer prayers in his behalf. Monday evening Kingston Council, 275, Knights of Columbus, called and recited the Holy Rosary, led by the Rev. Joseph A. Geis of St. Peter's Church of Kingston. The Rev. Philip J. Nolan led the Holy Name Society of St. John's Church the same evening in the recitation of the Holy Rosary. A very beautiful display of floral pieces and scores of Mass cards placed near the casket gave mute testimony of the high esteem in which he was held. Bearers were his four brothers, Francis, James, Joseph and Daniel. The burial took place in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, where the Rev. Philip J. Nolan gave the final absolution at the grave.

Power Plant Planned

A new super-electric generating station will be built at a cost of $15,000,000 by the Glasgow Corporation on a site on the river bank west of Shieldhall as part of Scotland's postwar plans for encouragement of industry. To avoid delay, the corporation will not call for bids on the construction involved, but will place the contracts with firms prepared to proceed immediately.

Hurley Without Lights For Hour Last Night

Lights in the Hurley area went out about 9:30 o'clock last evening and remained out for about an hour before service was restored. The failure was due to fuse failure near Hurley. Linemen from the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation repaired the damage and service was restored. The cause of the failure of the fuse may have been from any one of a number of causes. At the time of the failure the army demonstration was going on at the municipal stadium and many people were of the impression the terrific explosions at the stadium might have been responsible for the failure but company officials stated this was not the cause.

LAWMAKERS' PAY

Legislation is going to be more expensive. President Truman maintains that the present salaries of senators and representatives at Washington, $10,000 a year, is too little to live on, or to attract high-class men.

Heretofore the honor of occupying such positions has been generally regarded as a substitute for low pay. But statesmen say they cannot live on honor alone. With living expenses rising and so many claims on their salaries, only the rich can afford to remain in public life, unless the government itself, with public sanction, provides the wherewithal. Most of the lawmakers are not rich. It is obviously undesirable to fill such offices with rich men only, if it can be avoided. And a good public servant is certainly worthy of his hire, as surely as is the man who works with his hands rather than his head.

It is of vast importance to have able men in public life, capable of handling the big issues of these times. Men qualified for such service regardless of private means are needed. The best are required by the nation, and their expert service is worth paying for.

Day by day the foods we like get scarcer and the points required more numerous. Seems as if eventually they would meet themselves on the other side.

Reconversion is a great thing, say a lot of women who are being reconverted now to home duties.

There are no more "private wars" now; every patriot has a right and duty to take a hand in the business of cleansing the world.

MEAT AND VEGETABLES

We are beginning to get the low-down on the meat problem. It isn't only war that makes the scarcity. According to a recent report of American experts, while the war produced most of the present acute shortage, there has been a growing scarcity in progress for half a century. Thus Americans may as well start getting reconciled to a permanent fate of less meat in the future than they have had in the past.

This is evident in a report made by a group of scientists at Cornell University. The problem is rather simple. The human population of the country steadily increases; but its increase is not, and cannot, be sustained indefinitely by a corresponding increase of livestock. There are not enough pasture lands and lands producing grain and hay.

To put the matter very simply, the people are crowding out the cattle. And in the course of one year, ending January 1, 1945, there was what the New York Times calls "the greatest mass liquidation of meat animals in history." In that short period the number of "meat animal units" including cattle, hogs, sheep and chickens fell from 157,000,000 to 133,000,000.

Obviously we can't eat our meat and have it. Perhaps we'll need to go lighter on meat and heavier on vegetables.

German schools are reported opening again; this time we hope children will be taught the facts of modern life instead of Nazi fiction.

If there are decent people in Japan—and every country has some—now is the time for them to come forward.

"Yanks close pincers on Japs in Okinawa," says the headline. Squeeze hard, boys!

Says a foresighted citizen: "My present goal is next winter's coal."

THE YOUNGER VARDAMAN

Mississippians will recognize a familiar name on hearing that President Truman has appointed as a presidential aide Reserve Officer James K. Vardaman, a St. Louis lawyer, banker and shoe manufacturer.

Vardaman's father, bearing the same name, was for two decades the storm center of Mississippi politics. He was governor, senator, was defeated for the Senate by the scholarly John Sharp Williams and later became his colleague. Vardaman finally fell afoul of President Wilson, with whose war policies he was not in sympathy. In 1918, at the President's request, Mississippi replaced Vardaman by Pat Harrison, who before his death became Democratic floor leader in the Senate.

The elder Vardaman was a picturesque figure, but most Mississippians would prefer to have their state remembered by Williams or Harrison.

'These Days'

By George E. Sokolsky

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE

The city of New York is as large, in population as Australia, Peru, Portugal; it is larger than Sweden, Scotland or Norway. Obviously, the mayor of such a city administers one of the largest units for democratic action in the world.

Yet, during the past month, this city has witnessed a mean and ugly spectacle of Boss rule, of barter for place among the feudal lords in control of votes. For three terms, Fiorello LaGuardia had served as mayor chosen by a fusion of political parties. He had once upon a time been a Republican but had chosen to become a member and leader of the American Labor Party, which having passed through various stages came completely under the domination of New York Communists. When the better elements among the Laborites disassociated themselves from the Communists, LaGuardia chose to remain with them and lost in political prestige and stature. So this time he declined to run for a fourth term on the assumption that he could not be elected.

That threw the mayoralty into the laps of the politicians. The Republicans side-stepped the question altogether, deciding that they would see what the Democrats would do and then they would act accordingly. The Republicans would have preferred a coalition with the Democrats with the object of killing off the American Labor Party. This the Democrats rejected because they feel that they will need the A.L.P. in 1946 to defeat Governor Thomas E. Dewey who comes up for re-election then. The Liberal Party announced that it would oppose anyone endorsed by the A.L.P. because of the Communist power in that party.

So, Mr. Ed Flynn of the Bronx, who had just returned from Moscow where he went on a secret mission, decided that he needed a vacation in Florida or somewhere, and all the political parties had to wait for Flynn to recover from whatever it was that bothered him. When he returned, he and Mr. Frank Kelly of Brooklyn decided that if they wanted the support of the American Labor Party, they would have to accept General William O'Dwyer, who is the district attorney in Brooklyn and who had been in service with the Army in Europe. The American Labor Party has been insistent that O'Dwyer, who had run for mayor once before against LaGuardia and had been defeated, be nominated. "The Daily Worker" argued that O'Dwyer was a rank and file candidate. This has made O'Dwyer suspect.

This situation was complicated by Messrs. Flynn and Kelly nominating two inconspicuous, generally unknown and administratively uncertain individuals for comptroller and president of the council. This produced a revolt among the Democrats, Laborites and as I write it is even doubtful if O'Dwyer will not withdraw. Certainly, the ticket will have to be revised. The Bosses are having a hard time, poor things.

Meanwhile, the Republicans, unable to produce a candidate of their own, turned to an independent Democrat of unusual abilities, Judge Jonah Goldstein, one of the most effective campaigners in this city. He started his political career as secretary to Al Smith and has inherited not only Al's friendships but his bag of political tricks, the most efficient being absolute financial and intellectual honesty. If Judge Goldstein is finally nominated after the primaries in July, he will be elected.

So there is democracy at work. A couple of bosses set up the slate for a city as large as many countries. They nominate in utter disregard of public needs or interests. They load their slate with nonentities. Deals are made over the counter. The great Republican party cannot find anyone to run on its ticket and has to go begging independent Democrats to come aboard. The American Labor Party with its Communist affiliations, utilizing P.A.C. tactics, seeks not only to force its own candidate on the Democrats but to use the Democrats as a transmission belt for a Left Wing victory. And in a city this size, the people stand by and let the politicians do all this to them until an old Grand Street Boy pulls them out of this miserable hole. But the fact is that the Bosses failed to put their program over.

SKIN IRRITATIONS

During World War I a chaplain was brought to our base hospital with a diagnosis of scarlet fever. A few hours after his admission he came to me, as senior medical officer, to protest against having to stay in hospital as he was not sick and his scarlet rash was fading. Calling the medical officer of his ward, we found that he was suffering from a scarlet rash on his body caused by a drug he had taken for a headache. He was sensitive or allergic to that particular drug.

A skin eruption not due to disease but to contact with certain substances is called contact dermatitis. In the Journal of Missouri Medical Association, Dr. N. M. Tobias states that contact dermatitis ranks among the four common diseases of the skin. It is of special interest at this time when manpower is of such importance for the following reasons: 1. Early diagnosis prevents skin ailments which can become serious and prevent patient from working. 2. New synthetic drugs, substituted for tried drugs, increase the number of cases. 3. Exposure to these drugs or substances used in industry. 4. The shortage of physicians may lead many to treat themselves and so there is an increase in this type of case.

Among the common substances which cause skin irritations Dr. Tobias lists the following in the order of their frequency: Plants (21 per cent); poison ivy, primrose, sumac, ragweed. Proprietary drugs (20 per cent). Cosmetics (16 per cent): soaps, nail polish, hair tonics. Professionally prescribed medicines and ointments (16 per cent): sulphur ointment, ammoniated mercury, Whitfield's ointment, tar ointment, metaphedrin nose drops, tincture of iodine, phenolated coal-tar lotions and ointments, calmitol, butesin picrate ointment, and adhesive plaster. Preparations prescribed by druggists (12 per cent): sulphur ointment, blue ointment, liniments, unknown liniments and lotions. Household products (15 per cent): soaps, furniture polish, drugs to kill insects, shoe polish, turpentine, paint removers, formalin, flour, rubber cement, dyed leather. Wearing apparel (3 per cent): black or blue dyed dresses, furs, wool sweaters, rubber dress shields, brassier strap adjusters, white gold jewelry, dyed gloves.

Wool Men Fight Rayon

Wool growers of Australia are planning a united stand against synthetics, opposing the government subsidizing of imports of rayon material into the country. Municipal councils in Melbourne and throughout Victoria State are leaders in the effort. The federal government is criticized as unfair to wool growers in making up the difference between landed cost and fixed prices of piece goods and made-up articles. It thus permits a dangerous rival to the wool industry and provides it with a weapon which wool is denied, the growers claim.

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Kingston's Chamber of Commerce in 1912 was very active in attempting to hurry the building of the proposed bridge across the Rondout creek between this city and Sleightsburgh.

In February of that year, Sam Bernstein, Sr., president of the organization, appointed a bridge committee and on March 6, 1912, the committee went to Albany to confer with officials of the state highway department.

At that time they were assured that an engineer of the department would make an investigation of proposed sites and prepare an estimate of the cost of constructing a bridge across the creek.

It was not until a decade later, however, that the realization of the dream of a bridge across the creek began to be realized.

Many of the older readers of this column will recall the years when they attended old Kingston Academy—now but a memory. The other day I ran across a clipping telling of the death of Dr. Francis J. Cheney, who served as principal of the old academy from 1880 to 1890, on March 9, 1912, in his home in Cortland.

During the 10 years that Dr. Cheney served the uptown academy he was also active in the religious life of Kingston. He was a member of St. James Methodist Church and for a time served as superintendent of the Sunday school.

During his administration of school affairs the third story was added to the old academy, and many improvements made to the building.

With the construction of the present high school the old academy was torn down and the site is now Academy Green.

In the years at the turn of the century the Old Homestead Club was active and on February 19, 1912, the annual banquet and dance of the club was held in Mannerchor Hall on the Strand, at Hasbrouck avenue.

Martin's orchestra furnished the music that evening, and Walter Clough of the Lyric Theatre on the Strand, sang several selections.

John McVey was president of the club that year. The other officers were Charles H. Parsells, vice president, LaRue Weber, secretary, John Tonskey, treasurer, and Martin Studt, sergeant at arms.

The members of the banqueting committee that night were Judge Harry F. Groves, John Lang, Dr. E. D. Chipp, Charles Colburn and William F. Heybruck.

The Lyric Theatre in the years before the first World War was one of several stores in the city that had been remodeled into movie houses where silent pictures were shown.

These little theatres would seat approximately 300 people, and some of them to meet competition introduced the showing of vaudeville acts in addition to the movies.

Among some of the other little theatres that I recall were the Star on central Broadway, and the Bijou and the Novelty on Wall street.

Truman's Action in Using Hopkins and Davies Seems to Have Borne Success

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 13—President Truman's first venture into diplomacy—an effort to put the relations between the United States and Russia on a satisfactory basis—has apparently been a success.

Utilizing the services of two men who were intimately identified with the Roosevelt administration's dealings with Russia—Harry Hopkins and Joseph E. Davies—there was opportunity to present convincing evidence of the desire of the Truman administration to continue the close friendship which had previously existed and to build upon it a strong postwar relationship.

The Russians may or may not have realized the extent to which their attitude on certain questions recently had tended to alienate public opinion here. It is not persuasive to say that a certain section of the American press or certain observers alone created the coolness which has been developing rapidly. The Russians themselves have really failed to deal in clear-cut fashion with some of the problems arising out of the European war and particularly with the agreements reached at Yalta.

The differences of opinion may be explainable, but they have existed. And to say that the difficulty in relationships was invented solely by hostile critics is to make it appear that the American people do not read or understand the dispatches from authoritative sources telling of incidents in connection with the arrest of 16 prominent Poles, friction over the sending of British and American ambassadors to Czechoslovakia, and controversies over the establishment of temporary governments in Austria and Roumania.

The latest word is that the Russians are making concessions on certain points and clearing up some of the difficulties. Unhappily an impression is arising that some of these very issues are introduced in order to trade or bargain with the United States for things Russia needs and may have been doubtful about getting. This tends to give the appearance of materialistic dealings that would be most unfortunate if continued as the chief emphasis in the relations between two great peoples through their established governments.

America needs the friendship of Russia and Russia needs the friendship and help of the American people. The devastated areas of Russia need rebuilding. Raw materials as well as machine tools are essential to reconstruction. Two nations which need each other can find plenty of ways and means of supplying the essentials of a lasting friendship.

But there is a greater need for patience and understanding on both sides. The Russians have been clumsy and inept in their handling of issues at the San Francisco Conference. The British and American viewpoints, on the other hand, have not always been clear. Now, however, it is apparent that many of the things which Russia was accused of doing supposedly to block cooperation have not materialized at all.

American diplomatic representatives, for instance, have been admitted to Prague. Proposals for a solution of the Polish question are being made. The controversy with Tito over Trieste is being composed. American forces have entered Berlin and the inter-Allied Control Commission is starting to function.

Slowly but surely the suspicions which have been engendered are being removed. The American government is making plain that it has no desire to argue ideologies or to interfere with Russia's development of the Communistic philosophy for her own people but that any world-wide propaganda or encroachment on the sovereignty of other nations would naturally lead to unhappy feelings in this country.

The war is by no means over in the world as a whole. Russia can play a vital part in the Far East. Potentially she commands a vast territory that borders on Alaska and she also has relationships with China and Far Eastern politics that makes her a Pacific as well as a European power. This means that extraordinary efforts must be made to understand Russia's viewpoint and also to enable her to understand America's viewpoint. President Truman has made a good beginning on a complex controversy and his envoys—Messrs. Hopkins and Davies—have contributed much toward the larger problems of world peace by their missions which have just been concluded.

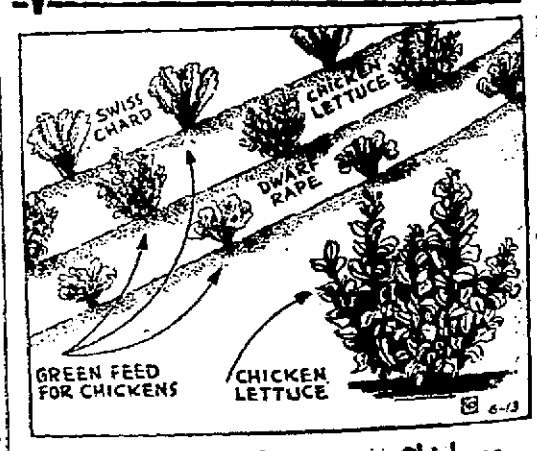
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Victory Greens for Victory Chickens

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Released by Central Press Association

THE VICTORY garden, in addition to growing food for the family table, can also serve another patriotic purpose by growing greens for Victory chickens. If you have gone in for chickens as one means of short-cutting the food shortage.

Green feed is a good tonic for chickens of all ages. When added to the ration of laying hens it stimulates their appetites and this leads to greater egg production. Heavy feeding is necessary if hens are to give big egg production.

The portion of the Victory garden set aside for growing greens for chickens should be planted in crops which can be cut continuously with the certainty that new growth will follow. As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, a Victory garden plot for chickens can include Swiss chard, dwarf rape and chicken lettuce.

Swiss chard and dwarf Essex rape can be cut continuously and new growth will come on. Both will continue to yield green feed for the chickens until late in the fall, if protected by straw covering from early frosts.

Chicken lettuce, illustrated, is a non-heading lettuce grown especially for feeding poultry and rabbits. It will yield more green feed for this purpose than any other plant you can grow. After cutting the stumps will make a new growth and another crop can be harvested.

Chicken lettuce grows best in rich, moist soil, during cool weather. For a continuous supply, make successive plantings every two weeks until August.

What's the Use?

Now, what's the use of worrying?
Fretting doesn't pay.
Now, what's the use of hurrying?
Why, it's the slowest way.
Most all the things that worry you never will come true.
Then, friend, why let them flurry you as you often do?
—Walter Herman Van

Out near a construction job the other day the foreman came upon a workman walking along with his left arm at a peculiar angle.
Foreman—What's the matter there, Jones?
Workman (stopping and looking around at Smith, 75 feet back of him, walking along in the same manner)—Darned if we haven't forgotten that ladder.

A friend who enjoys the costly but nonetheless exciting sport of "improving the breed" brought us this yarn straight from the horses' mouth.
Two thoroughbreds were talking over a coming race.
First—I'm going to win it! I've simply got to win it.
Second—How come? I've never known you to take a race that seriously before.
First—Well, my owner said to me: "Look here, Old Man, you win this race and there'll be 30 extra bales of hay for you.
Second—Thirty bales! No wonder you want to win. That ain't money!

Passing the Buck

When people fail they often state,
In words quite stale, that it was Fate.
—Lt C. Elton Pugh, U.S.N.

I'll Take America

What if they offer me jewels and crowns
Offer me provinces, cities and towns,
Diamond trimmed carriages, gold covered gowns?
I'll take America!
Here in America, not famed, but free,
I am the chooser of what I shall be
What I accomplish depends upon me.
I'll take America!
Glory may come from the sorrows of war:
Power and wealth may grow out of gore:
Men have been crowned for mad conquests before.
Not in America.
America offers no trophy or crown
For murder and torture and churches bombed down
Here love, hard work and kind deeds win renown.
God Bless America.

Grandma Jackson and her young grandson were riding on a train. Grandma had dozed and suddenly she sat up:
Grandma—What was that station the conductor called?
Grandson—He didn't announce any station; he just put his head in the door and sneezed.
Grandma—Get the bundles together quickly. This is Oshkosh!

A woman, during a recent shower, complimented her husband:
Woman—You hold that umbrella so nicely. In fact you keep it over me better than you did when we were caught in a shower while courting.
Husband—For your life, I have to buy your clothes now.

My Aim?

I will follow the upward road today,
I will keep my face to the light;
I will think thoughts as I go my way,
I will do what I know is right.
I will look for flowers by the side of the road,
I will laugh and love and be strong;
I will try to lighten another's load,

Diner—Are you sure that was cottage pudding you served me?

Poughkeepsie Man Buys Half Interest In Local Concern

William Haber, for 10 and a half years manager of the Mack Drug Company in Poughkeepsie, has purchased a half interest in the United Pharmacy, 324 Wall street, and has become associated in that business with Mortimer Englander who has owned and operated the business for 14 years. Mr. Haber is married and has two children. He will make his home in Kingston as soon as he can secure suitable residence facilities here.

Mr. Haber, a native of Poughkeepsie, attended the public schools of that city and has been associated with the drug business for 16 years. He was graduated from Union University, Albany College of Pharmacy, class of 1932 with the degree of Ph.G. Mr. Haber is a past secretary of the Dutchess County Pharmaceutical Association and installing officer. Mr. Haber also served as master of Obed Lodge, No. 984, F. & A. M., of Poughkeepsie, and is a member of Vassar Temple and Men's Club of Poughkeepsie.

Mortimer Englander, who has conducted the United Pharmacy since its establishment 14 years ago, is now serving in the United States Army and has over three years of service. At present he is at Halloran General Hospital, Staten Island, undergoing treatment. Fraternally Mr. Englander is a member of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. & A. M. of this city. Both Mr. Englander and Mr. Haber will give their personal attention to the business and the policy of low price and quality merchandise, which has been in vogue by the United Pharmacy, will be continued as in the past and with two owners it will be possible to give greater personal attention to patrons.

Langford Investigation Turns to 'Block' Theory

New York, June 13 (AP)—Investigators of the slaying of Albert E. Langford, frustrated in efforts to find the gun with which he was shot, turned today to a theory that the 63-year-old, wealthy textile executive was killed because "he was in someone's way."

The theory was advanced yesterday by Mrs. Beatrice Coleman, the Austrian "countess" with whom Robert Redwing, self-styled Indian chief, purportedly arranged the marriage of the Langfords.

"You know there was much money involved," Mrs. Coleman told newsmen at her Hollywood home, "and money is a powerful force."

Denying she had any royal rank, Mrs. Coleman declared she never had been promised money in connection with the Langford courtship, but said she received a "lovely diamond bracelet" and a 40-karat star sapphire ring from Langford before his marriage. She said she later returned the gifts.

Meanwhile a penknife and a nickel were the fruits of a police search of sewers in the vicinity of the Hotel Marguery for the death weapon. Langford was slain in his apartment in the hotel.

Returns From Flight Over Targets in Europe

An Eighth Air Force Service Command Station, England—Viewing scenes that forewarn Japan of her future, Corporal John P. Anderson, Kingston, N. Y., recently returned from a flight over targets in France, Belgium and Germany which were relentlessly devastated by bombers of the 8th Air Force. By viewing the total destruction and immense part the air forces played in the victory in Europe, clerks, cooks, mechanics, truck drivers and technicians, realized that their jobs, which sometimes seem routine and uneventful, will play the same vital role in the strategic bombing of Japan as it did in Europe.

With skeleton flying crews pointing out such much bombed cities as Aachen, Bremen, Cologne and Frankfurt, the G.I.'s got a clear view of the continent, as the pilots, many of them veterans of 30 and more missions, flew over the cities slightly above tree-top level.

The ground forces are now preparing planes, equipment and supplies for possible duty with the air forces in the Pacific area where the Allies will assemble all their powers for the fast and complete defeat of Japan.

SGT. LOUIS VARGA

Being stationed in England for the past two years, Sgt. Louis Varga received his first furlough and visited Edinburgh, Scotland, where he had his photo taken. Before entering service in December 22, 1942, he was employed by the War Department in Washington, D. C. He is the husband of Mrs. Dolores Varga of 56 Foxhall avenue and the son of James Vargas of New York city.

PRIVATE TO SERGEANT

At a Pacific Base, June 11—P.F.C. Henry C. Stoll, 23, husband of Mrs. Dorothy Stoll of Kingston, N. Y., has been promoted to sergeant. He is a machine gun squad leader in an infantry regiment. Before entering service in October, 1942, Sergeant Stoll operated the Stoll Service Station in Kingston. He has a six months old daughter, Dorothy. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Stoll, live on Albany avenue, Kingston.

Dateline: Pacific

By JAMES HUTCHESON

With the Eighth Army in the Philippines (AP)—Yarns from the Yanks:

P.F.C. Fred P. Romero said he played dead more realistically than he ever imagined he could for 14 hours in a Japanese bivouac area after an enemy ambush killed his comrades.

The division patrol, on a central Philippines Island, was investigating the apparently abandoned bivouac site when a Japanese opened fire with an automatic rifle.

"The Japs had split our patrol and ambushed five of us in front," said the Doughboy from Los Angeles. "I was the only one alive."

He wriggled to a boulder, with his rifle and a lone grenade under him.

"I could see where the automatic rifle was firing from," he continued, "but it was too far for my grenade. A machinegun had opened up in front, but I couldn't see it.

"After I laid there about two hours, around noontime, a couple of Japs came out of the bushes and examined the bodies of the other men. I was on my side and could watch them with my eyes half open. I decided to keep the grenade ready and take them with me if they tried to turn me over."

But for some strange reason they didn't touch Romero, although they stood next to him and "jabbered like lightning," before going away.

Throughout the seemingly endless afternoon he did his best to lie motionless while groups of four or five, going to a nearby spring, "passed near enough to kick me."

Romero took his first drink of water from his canteen after dark. He finally decided to make a break for it at about 11 p. m. To evade the Japanese along regular routes, he took to the river. He estimated it took him three hours to feel his way for one 200-yard stretch, as he stopped frequently because of illumination by lightning flashes. He said it took him an hour to work his way around a 15-foot waterfall.

It was dawn when he finally reached his own lines.

Everything from Bibles to bullfolds has been credited with saving Doughboy's lives, but Pvt. Jerry Neary of Hollis, N. Y., gives credit in his case to a couple of bandoliers of ammunition which were slung across his chest.

During the recent fighting of the 31st Division in Mindanao, a Japanese machine gun bullet pierced one of Neary's clips and set his tracer bullets afire. But the bullet was stopped by a second clip. Neary hit the ditch, put out the fire and went on with the war.

Another 31st Division trooper literally ran into a bees' nest of trouble on Mindanao. S./Sgt. John C. Carrier of Providence, R. I., veteran of 32 months of jungle fighting in the Pacific, dislodged a bees' nest as his platoon advanced in the woods. For half an hour the bees kept the Americans occupied. Afterward, they said the bees had more sting to their attack than the Japanese.

New York Bans Sulfa Sales

New York, June 13 (AP)—The unrestricted sale of sulfa-containing products previously sold without prescription has been banned by New York city effective October 1, the Board of Health announces. Acting Health Commissioner Frank A. Calderone said at a meeting of the Health Department yesterday the ban would include such sulfa products as nose drops, bandages, shaving cream and cosmetics. The wide variety of individual reactions to unrestricted use of the drug makes self-medication of this kind especially dangerous, he said.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, June 12—An etching by Clarence Bolton was presented to Curl Cousins on Saturday evening. The presentation was made at the Stowell Drug Store and was a gift of the newly organized Masonic Club here. The picture was presented as a wedding present.

The regular Children's Day service was held in the Methodist Church here Sunday morning, June 10, at the regular church hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Woolsey have received the Purple Heart, which was awarded to their son, Jack, some time ago. Jack is a Marine serving at present in the South Pacific.

A missionary meeting was held in the Methodist Hall Thursday. It was attended by 10 of the members.

Mrs. Mehalsa Elwyn, who has been ill for some time, has recovered and is able to be about again.

Jack Bentley spent a few days in New York last week, but has now returned to Woodstock and resumed his taxi work.

Mrs. Friedel Leader, who spent a few days last week in New York, has returned to her home here. Her son, Hans, is serving in the South Pacific.

The Maverick Sunday concerts will be resumed this season. Pierre Henrotte will manage the series of 10 concerts and the plan is to present some well known musicians during the summer. Mr. Henrotte will be assisted by the well known cellist, Horace Britt. At present the opening date has not been announced.

Nearly a year ago Bruce Walker was struck by a hit and run driver on the Bearsville road. Since that time he has been at the New York Medical Center, but he has now sufficiently recovered to be able to return to his home. He is with his mother, Mrs. Vera Walker, and is still wearing a cast.

P.F.C. Newton Shultis has returned to the United States and is at present with his sister, Miss Neva Shultis, on week-ends. During the week he is at the Halloran General Hospital, where he will probably undergo treatments for several weeks longer. He has seen active service for 17 months and was twice wounded. He has three stars on his service stripe and also has the Purple Heart. His outfit, 117th Infantry, was given the Presidential Citation.

The workshop schedule for the summer classes of the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen has been announced and registration for these classes is starting now. Those interested are urged to register promptly as only a limited number can be taken in each class. These courses are open to all Ulster county residents and the time has been made to conform with the bus schedules permitting those outside of Woodstock to take the courses. The first course in pottery under Mrs. Jessie A. Stagg opens June 18 at her studio in Shady. The following openings are: Home-crafts, June 27; Design, June 29; Weaving for beginners, July 5; the Short Crafts courses, July 5; Workshop in Design for children, July 7.

Western District Scouts Camporee At East Jewett

Approximately 100 scouts and 15 scouters spent the week-end at the new Ulster-Greene Council Scout camp at East Jewett last week-end at the camporee for the Western District.

Regardless of the rain and although the scouts were in tents they managed to keep their bedding dry and thus suffered no ill effects.

Lieutenant Steeley of the New York State Police talked to the boys on the safe ways of searching timberlands for lost persons and had the scouts actually practice this work.

The General Eisenhower waste paper medals were presented to the scouts and scouters of the district who had participated in this campaign, 45 medals being presented to scouts and unit citations presented to two troops. These awards represented a total collection of 18,700 pounds of waste paper.

The winners of the camporee events are as follows: Log Skid—First place, Troop 61; second place, Troop 63; third place, Troop 62. String Burning—First place, Troop 61; second place, Troop 60; third place, Troop 63. Tracking—First place, Troop 60; second place, Troop 61; third place, Troop 63. Water Boiling—First place, Troop 60; second place, Troop 63; third place, Troop 61. Inspection—First place, Troop 63 tied with Troop 60; second place, Troop 61; third place, Troop 62.

The camporee was under the general direction of William Cruickshank, camping chairman for the Western District, the Rev. Arthur Hansen, Western District commissioner and William C. Weyman, district chairman.

New Jersey Voters Nominate Candidates

Newark, N. J., June 13 (AP)—New Jersey voters went to the polls in small groups yesterday to nominate party candidates for legislative, county and local offices in a primary election almost entirely devoid of contests.

Only in Union, Warren and Camden counties, where there were struggles for the Republican Assembly nominations, was there any doubt as to Republican and Democrat entries in the November elections.

No Democratic nomination was placed in Sussex county, now represented in the Legislature by Republicans, and only two write-in votes were polled, unofficial returns showed.

Scores Are Given In Scout Contests Held at Camporee

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, June 13—The Dorcas Society held its regular meeting last evening at the Reformed Church Hall. A pot luck supper was served before the business meeting. The president, Mrs. Philip Fisher, conducted the meeting. After the usual opening exercises a brief business meeting was held. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, June 26, with Miss Mary Polhemus, Mrs. Henry Polhemus and Mrs. Clark Bonesteel as hostesses. A social hour with cards concluded the evening.

There will be rehearsal this evening in the Girl Scout room at 7 o'clock of all the Girl Scouts and Brownies in the pantomime. The regular weekly meeting of the senior troop will follow.

Mrs. Anna Breve of Brooklyn is the guest of her cousin, Miss Florence Kruse.

There will be no meeting of Troop 44 Brownies on Friday because of the rally on Saturday.

All Girl Scouts and Brownies will meet at the Reformed Church Saturday morning at 11:30 o'clock to go to the rally in Kingston. Each is reminded to bring her lunch and fee for transportation.

Hubert Brink of Lake Katrine called Monday evening on Floyd Ellsworth.

The board of directors of Ross Park will meet tomorrow evening at the town clerk's office at 8:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

The group working on the picnic area of Ross Park will meet at the park tomorrow evening to continue the development of that section. Any men of the village will be welcome, as will be Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts to do lighter work.

Poor Digestion? Headachy? Sour or Upset? Tired-Listless? YES ☐ NO ☐

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? To feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly.

Each day, Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested—leaving you headachy and irritable.

Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—often in as little as 30 minutes. And, you're on the road to feeling better.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any druggists. Only 25¢.

Kingston District Scout Meeting

Freeman photo

The final Kingston District Scout meeting before the summer season was held Monday evening at Lawton Park when executives, commissioners and scoutmasters enjoyed a spaghetti dinner. D. Gregory Badger, the new Scout Executive, was introduced. Reports were read including that of the camporee held at Forsyth Park last week-end. Following the business session, Harold Eide, traveler and explorer, gave an interesting talk on Spitzbergen.

Hartford Loaned Elliott Roosevelt $200,000 in 1939

Then Debt Was Written Off for $4,000, Counsel Says; No Comment From Roosevelt

New York, June 13 (AP)—Caruther's Ewing, general counsel for the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, says that Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt settled a $200,000 loan from John Hartford, president of the A. & P., for $4,000.

Hartford yesterday termed "substantially correct" a story in Westbrook Pegler's column syndicated by Kings Features, that the son of the late president borrowed the $200,000 in 1939. Roosevelt could not be reached for comment.

Pegler's account "is not the whole story but it is substantially correct," Hartford said, adding, "I would not have made it public myself and I regret very much that it has been published."

Ewing said in Danville, Ill., the debt was settled three years later "at the request of the Roosevelt family" through the then Secretary of Commerce, Jesse Jones.

Ewing said Elliott Roosevelt, then 29, secured the loan to finance his Texas radio interests. "They were losing money hand over fist," Ewing added.

He said that in 1942 Jones told him the Roosevelt family wanted to compromise the debt and he took young Roosevelt's note and stock collateral to Jones who "gave me a check payable to John Hartford for $4,000 which was all Hartford ever received on the loan and the whole thing was closed."

"The loan," Ewing said, "was written off by Mr. Hartford in his 1942 income tax report as a bad debt."

Pegler said the A. & P. head at first was reluctant to make the loan on the basis it might embarrass President Roosevelt.

"Elliott immediately telephoned to President Roosevelt * * *," Pegler said, "and the president spoke cordially to Mr. Hartford . . . and thanked him for this favor to his son. He also invited Mr. Hartford to call on him."

Lancaster Man Convicted Of Second Degree Murder

Lancaster, Pa., June 13 (AP)—James John Malone, 18-year-old former college student, was convicted yesterday of second degree murder in the "Russian poker" death of William Long, 13, last February 28.

Malone testified in Lancaster county court he had read of a game called "Russian Poker" in which participants placed a cartridge in a revolver, twirled the cylinder, placed the muzzle against their heads and pulled the trigger.

He told the court he suggested that he and Williams play the game. Williams furnished the gun loaded with one bullet. The third pull of the trigger fired the shot, Malone said.

Judge Joseph Wissler postponed sentencing pending disposition of a motion for a new trial.

EISENHOWER SALUTES LONDON THRONG

Big Three Meeting Is Set, Truman Tells Conference

within the 40 day limit he announced at a news conference last Thursday.

Asked what would happen to the Polish exiled government if a unified Polish government is set up as a result of the Moscow conference, he said it would go out of existence since the meeting is to set up a new government in which all could participate.

The President was hearty in his praise of the work of Davies and Hopkins, crediting the latter particularly with persuading the Russians to yield from their stand on the big five power veto at San Francisco. Asked if Hopkins' mission had anything to do with that, he replied: Categorically it did.

Arrests Are Discussed

He said Hopkins also discussed the recent arrests of 16 Poles in Russia which brought about a halt to Polish issue negotiations at San Francisco.

Mr. Truman said he had no announcement about the arrested Poles at this time. He cautioned reporters repeatedly not to muddy the waters, asserting that every effort is being made to work the problem out. There will be further discussion of the Polish situation at the Big Three meeting, he added.

He said he hadn't heard a report mentioned by one questioner that the London Polish government had declared it would have nothing to do with the meeting that starts Friday in Moscow.

The Chief Executive said that Press Secretary Charles G. Ross also would accompany him to the Big Three meeting and that he would do everything possible to see that American newspapers get equality of treatment as to the conference developments, which in itself, he added, will necessarily be secret.

Subsequently the President released this written statement for direct quotation on the Hopkins-Davies missions:

"In order to secure an interchange of views more satisfactorily and quickly than by cable, I sent Mr. Hopkins to Moscow and Mr. Davies to London.

"Their discussions covered the arrangements for the time and place of the meeting of Prime Minister Churchill, Marshal Stalin and myself, as to what would be most convenient for all three.

"Since their return, Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Davies have made their reports to me. The results have been completely satisfactory and gratifying.

"The all important thing which confronts us is that the unity, mutual confidence and respect which resulted in the military victory should be continued to make secure a just and durable peace."

(End statement)

Reverting again to the Polish problem, Mr. Truman said he hopes a free and democratic election will be held in Poland as one result of the Moscow conference.

MODENA

Modena, June 12—Mr. and Mrs. Preston Paltridge celebrated their 31st wedding anniversary on Sunday, June 10 and entertained as dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. Solie Bernard, Jr., daughter Sharon Lee, Mrs. Gloria Harris, Mrs. Ruth Paltridge and daughters, Donna and Linda of Poughkeepsie, Mrs. Bessie Gerow of New Paltz.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Pierce and daughter, Janet of New Jersey, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jensen on Sunday. Mrs. Pierce and daughter spent the past week with relatives here and in Ardonia.

James Hansen of the navy visited relatives here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wager, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Molson visited Kingston, Saturday evening to witness the baseball game, Rees, vs. Ricans with Bill Lohrman, ex-big leaguer hurling for the Rees at the municipal stadium.

Joan Hartney and Patricia Molson were in the class of children receiving their first Holy Communion at St. Charles Church, Ireland Corners, Sunday, June 3.

Mrs. Ralph Ellersen has employment with the O.P.A. in Kingston.

Local members attended the meeting of the Plattekill Grange on Saturday evening when first and second degrees of initiation were conferred on a class of candidates. Mrs. Fred Bernard, Verda and Arline Bernard joined the Subordinate Grange, and Phyllis Paltridge the Juvenile Grange.

Memorial services were conducted Tuesday morning at St. Joseph's Church, New Paltz, for Staff Sgt. William J. Harcher, missing in action in France since May 25, 1944. Sgt. Harcher was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Harcher to enter the U. S. service, and was a waist gunner on a B-29, when his disappearance caused the War Department to notify the nearest of kin. He was a graduate of Wallkill High School and prior to his induction was employed as a welder by the Chicago Bridge and Iron Co. of Newburgh. Besides his parents, other relatives are two sisters, Mrs. Louis Pagentine and Miss Margaret Harcher; two brothers, Andrew Jr., in the army, and Robert Harcher at home. A memorial wreath has been placed on the Modena Honor Roll of Service Men by the Modena-Ardonia Service Cheer Club, for Sgt. Harcher.

A memorial wreath has also been placed on the Honor Roll for Lieut. John Mastromarino, who died of disease on the island of Iyak, in the South Pacific, on October 26, 1944. Lieut. Mastromarino, who was born in Boston, Mass., was resident physician at the Cornwall Hospital until he was commissioned in 1943, and went overseas in June 1944. He was the husband of Mrs. Hilde Smith Mastromarino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of Modena.

attached to a tank. Then the Yanks climbed hand over hand up a rope attached to a boulder and won that strategic height southwest of Hanagusuku. Since, these 32nd Regiment infantrymen have pushed down the south slope, despite heavy enemy fire.

Yesterday, to the northwest of Hanagusuku, the 17th Regiment of the Seventh used the same tactics at night to ascend a cliff at the front of the plateau.

On the western end of the escarpment line at a point below Itoman town, First Division Marines of Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle, started at night on Kunishi Ridge, reached the top before daylight and were reinforced as the Japanese sought vainly to dislodge them. Enemy infiltration attempts, with satchel charges, were repulsed.

At last reports, the 381st Regiment of Maj. Gen. James L. Bradley's 96th Infantry Division were atop a forward nose of the escarpment near the center of the line.

The enemy air force sent more planes to Okinawa Monday, today's communique reported, losing 10 while succeeding in hitting a light surface unit — the 54th American vessel acknowledged damaged in the area by air attack. Twenty-five others have been sunk.

For the third straight day, Okinawa-based planes raided southern Japan Tuesday, attacking Kyushu airfields and downing four interceptors.

On the same day, Liberators and Privateers of Fleet Air Wing 18, also based at Okinawa, sank four cargo ships near the Tokoy bay area off Honshu island.

Benefit Dance

A benefit dance will be held by the Binnewater Volunteer Fire Co., at the fire hall there on Friday evening, June 22, at 8:30 o'clock. Music will be furnished by Floyd Dietz and the Singing Sons of the Saddle, and refreshments will be on sale.

Children's Service

Children's Day will be observed in the Phoenicia Methodist Church June 17 at 11 a. m. A religious and patriotic pageant will be given. The sacrament of baptism will be observed at this service. Everyone welcome.

Hospital Goods To Be Sold June 20

Articles for Emergency Will Be Up for Purchase

At the last meeting of the Common Council the aldermen authorized the sale of the equipment and supplies of the emergency hospital set up in the municipal auditorium, and the date of the sale has been set for Wednesday morning, June 20, at 10 o'clock.

In announcing the date of the sale prospective buyers will have an opportunity of inspecting the articles to be sold on Tuesday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock at the auditorium.

There are approximately 100 cots and bedding as well as hospital supplies that will be offered for sale.

At the council meeting it was stated that it cost $3,000 to set up and equip the emergency hospital. During the time there was a potential danger of German air raids over the city.

Public Health Nursing Committee Organized

Kerhonkson, June 12—A public health nursing committee was organized at a meeting Friday, May 8, held at the home of Mrs. Calgon in Napanoch. At this meeting the villages of Kerhonkson, Wawarsing, Napanoch and Ellenville were represented.

Two of the activities of the committee are:

To interpret work of the public health nurse and committee to the community.

To aid the public health nurse in any duty which the nurse or doctor may require of them while assisting at clinics, etc.

A well baby clinic for the town of Wawarsing was discussed, which is only one of the many important tasks to be performed by the committee.

On June 18 at Napanoch M. E. Church at 8 o'clock there will be a film shown, "The Public Health Nurse," and also a film about tuberculosis. The speaker of the evening will be Dr. Mathison, health officer for the county of Ulster. The public is invited and there will be no admission charge.

It is estimated that one of every 259 working people in the United States is employed in some form of printing or publishing.

George Bernard Shaw wrote for nine years before he was able to make a living at it. His total income for that period was $30.

Civilian Travel To Be Cut Further As Aid to Army

Washington, June 13 (AP) — Another big segment of civilian travel will be sidetracked in August to make way for the Tokyo Express.

Half the present number of civilian cars and 10 to 12 per cent Pullman cars and 10 to 12 per cent of the railroad coaches will be withdrawn from civilian use from August until about March, 1946, for military purposes exclusively.

A growing pinch in air travel is also coming, J. Monroe Johnson, director of the Office of Defense Transportation predicted yesterday at a news conference in which he sought public cooperation in reducing unnecessary travel.

"I understand that in another two or three weeks you might as well stay at home if you haven't got a No. 2 airplane priority," Johnson said.

The diverted railroad cars will be used as troop carriers in organized movements averaging 308,000 men daily as the army's redeployment of forces to the Pacific gets into stride, Johnson said. Although the peak will arrive some time in August, difficulties will become pronounced early in July, when vacation travel normally soars.

As Johnson voiced the warning, the War Production Board announced that the entire freight car manufacturing industry had been placed on the national production urgency list with a "third band" priority on recruiting of manpower.

This puts freight car building on a par with tank production as a military necessity, as far as labor recruitment is concerned.

Eisenhower Hopes For Press Freedom

New York, June 13 (AP) — All soldiers have the "right to hope that all peoples may have, at the very least, the advantages of a free press and the free exchange of information throughout the world," says Gen. Eisenhower.

His statement was contained in a letter, dated January 26, 1945, and released last night by Wilbur Forrest, chairman of the American Society of Newspaper Editors which made a world tour in the interests of freedom of the press.

Forrest, to whom the letter was addressed, said Eisenhower stipulated that the letter should not be made public until the Germans were defeated and the A.S.N.E. committee had made its report. The committee's report was issued Sunday in Washington.

Gen. Eisenhower's letter said, in part:

"The sadistic attitude of Nazi prisoners is clearly traceable to constant exposure to Hitler's propaganda, in the spreading of which he used a controlled press and rigid censorship. x x x

"In war, censorship to ensure security of information which might be of value to the enemy is obviously necessary, but following cessation of hostilities censorship must be abandoned. x x x

"Every soldier in this war has the right to hope that all peoples may have, at the very least, the advantages of a free press and the free exchange of information throughout the world. Intolerance and bigotry flourish under dictated news. But they tend to disappear under the effects of enlightened education and freedom of the press."
